Leading Rich Media Provider Named to Internet Retailer's Top Vendor List

ROCHESTER, NY – February 16, 2016 – The Rochester-based company that introduced the world to dynamic imaging 16 years ago continues to lead their field worldwide. LiquidPixels has again been named as one of the 2016 Top Solutions Providers in E-Commerce by Internet Retailer.

Noted as a Rich Media vendor leader, LiquidPixels, a dynamic imaging solution provider, is honored to be part of a list that outlines the businesses the e-commerce industry should be partnering with to ensure their future success.

“LiquidPixels prides itself on delivering leading edge imaging solutions and providing our customers with concierge-level support. We are delighted to have our continued efforts acknowledged by being named to Internet Retailer’s Top Vendor list,” said Steve Kristy, LiquidPixels CEO and Co-Founder.

According to Internet Retailer, the list is a ranking of the top technology vendors and services providers in the e-commerce industry within 30 categories. It is compiled based on the online selling strategies of the 1000 largest web retailers in North America.

LiquidPixels has been providing dynamic imaging solutions to the e-commerce industry for 16 years and holds numerous key patents. In that time, they have revolutionized website responsiveness through their cutting-edge software that addresses the top two areas of growth, according to Internet Retailer: e-commerce platforms and mobile commerce technology.

LiquiFire[®] Operating System (OS), a comprehensive dynamic imaging solution that provides high-quality interactive imaging for even the most image-rich e-commerce sites, was recently updated to provide dramatically increased rendering speed, enhanced image editing capabilities, and art-quality color management. LiquiFire dynamic imaging solutions are designed to efficiently deliver images across the ever-growing spectrum of devices, screen sizes, and resolutions in use today.
